

problems that President Cleveland has dealt with is the government of the District of Columbia. He wants to fill the office with men who live in the district, and yet this is hardly a democrat in the city who is a candidate who is not objectionable.

The President has appointed H. P. Swineford, of Michigan, Governor of Alaska.

It is again rumored in Washington that Hon. S. C. Cox will not accept the Turkish mission.

The appointment of Hon. Boyd Winchester, to be Minister to Switzerland, displaces Minister Cramer, who is a brother-in-law of General Grant. The promotion of Mr. Winchester is considered a wise one and is generally commended. The salary of the office is $50,000 with about $4,000 perquisites.

A SPECIAL from Washington says: The public has only a very vague idea of the enormous political power of the pension office. There is no other branch of the Government that can be compared with it as a political engine. The commissioner of pensions could put three hundred political workers and $5,000,000 into a large State just before election, and do it all in strict accordance with the forms of law. The political effect of a belief judiciously cultivated by agents of the pension office, that a claimant's success in getting his claim properly adjusted, depended on his political opinions, may be guessed. It is understood at the treasury that as soon as possible, the vouchers of the pension office will be overhauled to see, so far at least as these documents will show, what Col. Dudley did with the funds of the office. It will be remembered that Mr. Springer's committee elicited the fact that the first year after Colonel Dudley became commissioner the expenses of the office were increased from $50,000 to $2,900,000, though there was very little increase in the amount of work.

SCHOOL NOTES.

TEACHERS.

We mentioned in our notes of Wednesday as one of the means of reaching all the pupil children, the employment of better teachers. By this we do not wish to be understood as casting any reflection on the teachers of the public schools. They are as faithful as any class in the discharge of their duty, I make no exception. But, unfortunately, they are too often circumscribed by their means, the meager salaries which they receive for teaching do not allow the outlay of time and money necessary to put them with educational methods. At the same time we hear the demand everywhere for more systematic and more practical education, more writing, more power to write in a neat and business like way. The time is at hand when scholarship will not be the only test of teaching power. The question of how would you teach, or how would you govern, in a given case, must soon take the place of questions of mere book knowledge. The people are finding out that it requires as much philosophy to understand the nature of the mental faculties as it does means and method to their logical perfection, as it does to practice medicine, preach or practice law, and in many cases a far more skillful hand and delicate execution must be brought to the task. What a work is the teacher's. He puts in motion and directs activities which determine for life the character and efficiency of his pupils. He makes study and polite learning attractive and pleasant, and an untiring source of pleasure, beauty and strength, or sinks it down to the servile drudgery of the driven slave, enervating and destroying all mental independence.

We have long demanded skilled labor in the artisan. Shall we demand less of the teachers? But we pay skilled labor in manufacturing and commercial pursuits. Shall we not likewise compensate the skilled teacher. The labor of the teacher can not justly be estimated by the day, but by the result. There is a fallacious belief entertained by some that the teacher who receives the least pay per day is the cheapest. To put this on a very low basis, let us for a moment consider the expense of educating. Take a country boy twelve years of age, of first item, time $10 per month, then add board, clothing and books, and we will find a small per cent. goes for tuition. These elements of expense are more or less with all pupils, and because there is no tuition fee it does not follow that there is no expense. It is the "Quiet Join" idea that is driving the best and brightest teachers into other fields of labor, because these offer better remuneration for the same skill and enterprise. We are here speaking in plain terms and calling up honest truths, our only apology is that we must deal honestly with these questions.

FISH'S PRIVATE MARRIAGE.

To Sallie Heber and why it was not given publicity.

SANDURKY, O., May 11.—Frank A. Layman, editor of the Evening Journal, of this city, gives the following statement concerning the death of Mr. Sallie Heber Leing. He said: "The published account of Mr. Leing's death is strictly true until it touches upon her life subsequent to the death of her first husband. At that point the inaccuracies begin. Some months after that event Mr. James D. Fish, at that time known as a millionaire banker, began paying her his addresses, which culminated in May, 1884, about the time he became involved in his financial difficulties in a private marriage, which in order to escape the notoriety that would ensue she stipulated should be kept secret as long as time as he was free again. These troubles, which at first appeared temporary, became more harassing as time went by. She still insisted upon her original stipulation, and did to the hour of her death, which was as sudden and unexpected to her friends as it was to her husband. The circumstances with Mr. Fish was a daughter born February 24, at Carlestadt, N. J., and which is now with friends of Mr. Fish, under his care and direction. The mother had almost entirely recovered from the effects of childbirth when she was attacked with an old stomach trouble which was chronic in her case, and yielding to a morbid appetite for certain articles of diet had been expressly forbidden her, she was indiscreetly, and died within a few hours, on the night of March 25. Her marriage Mr. Fish has been known to her family since last summer, but for the reason stated already, while her friends were alive to her and to them, it was never made public, and has not been since her death, because of attending circumstances and of her express request to that effect. In justice to Mr. Fish I would add that he has been anxious from the first to reveal the marriage. He was also by the family from secrecy."

The Proposed Catholic University. BALTIMORE, May 11.—The plenary council recently held in this city, appointed a committee of prelates to consider the establishment of a Catholic university in the United States, and New York and Baltimore have each been considered in connection with the location of such a university. It is believed that over $1,000,000 has been received for the purpose, including the $300,000 given by Miss Caldwell, of New York. A meeting of the prelates was held at the residence of Archbishop Gibbons. There were present Archbishop Williams, of Boston, Corrigan, of New York, and Cardinal of Philadelphia, Bishop Spaulding, of Peoria, Ireland, of St. Paul, and Monsignors Quinn and Farley, of New York. The proceedings of the conference were secret, and will not be disclosed at present.

Like the Green Folks he had read about. CHICAGO, May 11.—Eddie Bernier, aged fourteen years, met Tony Sackand, aged twelve, on Union street and quickly drawing a revolver he fired once at her, the bullet grazing her left side without doing any injury. Eddie then turned the pistol on himself and fired three shots. One bullet entered his left side. He was taken home where his wound was found not to be dangerous. Young Bernier's mother had been in the street with the little girl, and said he had become jealous of her and resolved to kill her and himself, "like the green folks he had read of in the papers."

TRAPPED BY CHILDREN.

EIGHT TAWNY BONS OF ITALY AR RESTED IN CHICAGO.

Charged With Murdering a Fellow Countryman for Gold—Unraveling the Pittsburg Trunk Mystery—One Man Positively Identified.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Five Sicilians have been arrested here for complicity in the murder of Caruso, whose corpse was sent to Pittsburg in a trunk. They can speak no English and are of the lowest class. They were arrested on evidence furnished by a little girl who saw Caruso enter the house occupied by them, and about an hour afterward saw a man enter the same house with a trunk on his shoulder. Her description of this trunk leaves little doubt that it is the one in which the body of Caruso was shipped to Pittsburg. The man, identified as the man who was in the room when the trunk was carried away, though he has since had his whiskers trimmed.

The police now believe they have arrested all the persons who were concerned in the affair. The two Italians, Antonio Mercutio and Bovocotto Savadori, now under arrest, were residents of the house where the murder is supposed to have been committed. A boy named Dolan and Mamie Corbett, a little girl, identified Mercutio as the man who
trimmed.

Dr. B. F. Broughton, of 71 Monroe street, has also identified Mercutio as the Italian he saw carrying a trunk past his office on April 30. An Irishman who has been under arrest since the body was found in the trunk has been released, there being no evidence against him. Detective Bonfield is expected to arrive from New York with Augustine Jurado and Victoria Ceasimiro, the woman who left here with him for New York, whence they intended sailing for Italy.

Dr. Broughton being interviewed by a representative of the American Press was again positive that he identified Mercutio as one of the men who brought the trunk. Dr. Broughton's office is on the corner of Madison and Morgan streets. He says he encountered two Italians, one carrying a trunk on his shoulder, on the street near Seneca's trunk store at 10 o'clock on the morning Caruso, the murdered man, disappeared. "I had it step off the walk," said the doctor, "to give the man room to pass, and thought it strange to see anybody carrying such a burden on his shoulders when there were numerous express wagons in the vicinity." Dr. Broughton called at his place in street station, where the eight prisoners were, and immediately identified Mercutio as the man who brought the body, arrived in Pittsburgh in charge of Detective Bonfield. He was interviewed through an interpreter, and denied that he was angry at Caruso because he refused him a loan of money. He said he did not know Caruso was dead until he was arrested in New York as an accomplice in his murder.
The prisoner is stoutly built, with low, receding forehead and boyish face.

NEARING THE END.

The Last Sad Scenes in the Libby Situation and Tragedy.

CHICAGO, May 11.—The Pinkertons claim that they have a clue as to the whereabouts of Charles A. Libby, the missing New York and Chicago shirt manufacturer. They believe him to be alive, but the developments are such that they refuse to divulge them.

The friends and relatives of Mrs. Libby at Philadelphia, where she was married seven years ago, have all been notified by telegraph, but it is not thought that they will have time to reach here before the burial, as the corpse cannot be kept long. The burial will take place at Graceland, where Mr. and Mrs. Libby have one child laid at rest.
Two beautiful little daughters, scarcely old enough to realize their terrible misfortune have been removed from the scene of the tragedy and will be kept away until after the burial. Their uncle, Mr. James I. Libby, will then take them with him to his home in New York.

They Fear the Irish Not the Struck.
NEW YORK, May 11.—Her majesty's steanship Canada, the crack corvette of the West Indies squadron, came up past quarantine and anchored in the upper bay, long beam was run out from the bow, from the end of which hung a colossal net which was used as a torpedo net. "This torpedo net is catching us lots of bother," said a lieutenant. "We are going to have a boat and its crew floating around every night and the launch will be ready at any moment.
We are not afraid of anybody trying to come alongside, but we're more afraid of some Irishman trying to float torpedoes against us with the ebb tide than we are of the Struck. We could do up the Struck in a few minutes."

CHAS. GALT STONE.
NEW LEBANON, O., May 11.—Quite an excitement prevails among the farmers of this vicinity, on the Eaton Pike, eleven miles west of Dayton, on the alleged discovery of a gold mine. Wm. Shock and a gang of workmen left here and found the place which was said to contain the gold, on a farm near here. They commenced digging and kept it up all night, but have not struck the gold yet. They assert, however, that the gold is there, and they will continue their operations until they find it. About six months ago another gang started to dig for gold on the same farm, but were driven off.

Fugitive Murderer Caught.
AKRON, O., May 11.—George S. Barber, arrested at Bellevue, O., for killing Michael McCarthy in Akron, March 27, 1873, was brought here. Barber and McCarthy had quarrelled over a dog, and McCarthy, with two brothers, was advancing on Barber when he shot, killing Michael. On the preliminary hearing, thirteen years ago, Barber was cleared, but the grand jury indicted him for murder soon after. He disappeared immediately on the first acquittal, and for several years was not heard of. At the trial of Barber's discharge a number of Irishmen here were organizing to lynch him. Barber married lately and has a child.

Miss Wauveventer's Little Fortune.
CHICAGO, May 11.—The jury in the case of Miss Eugenie Vauveventer against the Chicago city railway company brought in a verdict awarding her $200 damages for injury received while attempting to get on a cable car last January.
